

The dormant Bonanza Mine, which is adjacent to the prolific Sheba Mine, an operation that has been producing continuously since 1884, is being re-investigated for strike and depth extensions of the known ore body.

A field exploration program has commenced with the objective of testing for further ore bodies possibly associated with prominent geophysical anomalies occurring along the Sheba Fault and other subsidiary structures controlling gold mineralization in that area of the Sheba Hills.

